* Role of Kasomari and Nishangram Village in the field of Tourism.

Nishangram: nestled in the Northeastern state of Assam's Goalpara district is a beauty. It is a place where 'Nature Meets History'.

A Picturesque Garo Village that brims with rustic natural beauty, rich heritage, delicious seasonal produce and mouth-watering ethnic delicacies. It is a place away from the humdrums of busy life. A place to relax, recharge and rejuvenate.

History of the place: Earlier known as "Matmaram" it is situated close to Meghalaya border. It was later re-christened as "Nisangram". It is derived from a high and distinctive flag once installed in the village.

In 1864 a school from Garo Children was established here.

"Everyone is literate in the Village" - Says Lakshman Chandra Momin, Retd Teacher, B.N union L.P School.

Later on, Rev. Rakho, a religious reformer first came and settled in this village. This area then came to be known as 'Christian Fora' meaning a village of Christian.

Schools in Nishangram:- There is a government pre-primary School. Additionally, there is a private pre-primary School in the village Nishangram.

There are 4 government primary schools in the village Nishangram.

Nishangram and Beyond—

with rural tourism being the flavour of times, Nishangram in Goalpara District, Assam is today at the top of most wish list. Home stay, community activities, interaction with locals, cycling, village nightwalk walks, hiking trails, proud fishing, jeep Safari, this clean village has it all. About 130 Kms to the west of Guwahati, on the Assam-Meghalaya

Border, it just the place (8 kms from Duthmai) for that nostalgic experience we now yearn for. Largely inhabited by Garos, the Village dates back to 1867 when Ramke W Momin and his brother, Rangke - among the first Garo Christians - Sattled between the valley and hills, away towards weekly market.

In assam, weekly market in rural areas plays an important role in sustaining the local economy. on your way Nishangram, Daringiri (10 kms from Guwahati on NH 37), is a bustling bi-weekly banana market where, at the crack of dawn on Monday and Tuesday, banana growers and traders from Garo hills of Meghalaya and Assam's Goalpara rush to. A local economy hub Daringiri is now a photographer's delight.

Nishangram and Beyond-

With rural tourism being the flavour of times, Nishangram in Bongaigaon District Assam is today at the top of most wish list. Home stay, community activities, interaction with locals, cycling, village nightwalk walks, hiking trails, pond fishing, jeep safari, this clean village has it all. About 130 kms to the west of P. O. on the Assam-Meghalaya

Barder, it just the place (8 kms from Duthmai) for that nostalgic experience we now yearn for. Largely inhabited by Garos, the village dates back to 1867 when Ramke W Momin and his brother, Rangke - among the first Garo Christians - settled between the valley and hills, away towards weekly market

In assam, weekly market in ~~red~~ rural areas plays an important role in sustaining the local economy. on your way Nishangram, Darangiri (10 kms from Guwahati on NH 37), is a bustline bi-weekly banana market where, at the crack of dawn on Monday and Tuesday, banana growers and traders from Garo hills of Meghalaya and Assam's Goalpara rush to. A local economy hub Darangiri is now a photographer's delight.

Nishangram and Beyond :- With rural tourism being the flavour of the times Nishangram in Goalpara district, Assam is today at the top of most wish lists. Home-stays, community activities, interaction with locals, cycling, village night walks, hiking trails, pond fishing, Jeep safari, this clean village has it all, about 130 kms to the west of Guwahati, on the Assam - Meghalaya border, it is just the place (8 kms from Dudhnai) for that off beat nostalgic experience we now yearn for. Largely inhabited by Garos, the village dates back to 1867 when Ramke W morrin and his brother, Rangku among the first Garo christians -settled between the village and hills, away towards weekly market.

In Assam, weekly market in rural areas plays an important role in sustaining the local.

economy. on your way to Nishengnam Darangiri (110 kms from Guwahati on NH 37) is a bustling bi-weekly bazaar market where at the crack of dawn on Monday and Thursday banana growers and traders from Garo Hills of Meghalaya and Assam's Goalpara rush to. A local economy hub Darangiri is now a photographers delight, the first preferred stop, as you head to Nishengnam from Guwahati, is parvati pohan at Boko (70 kms from Guwahati). A small hillock, it is the site of a Goddess parvati temple and a panoramic view. At dawn you can experience one of the most spectacular of sunrises with sunsets being equally beautiful. A walk around Dilinga village at its foothills will calm the soul and ease your city weariness as you head to Nishengnam and beyond.

you can visit Sri Surya pahar, a unique archaeological site of Hindu, Buddhist and Jain relics from the early christian era to around 12th century CE, about (30 kms away from Sri suryapahar ruins and near Ger Goolpara town) where patikans craft sitapatis (literally meaning cool mats to sleep on during summer) crafted from the mutha reed and relatively new design developed as an embellishment of purse, a variety of bags, placemats, wall art, file cover, hat and more. Q. Socio-cultural importance of Nishangram Village.

Ans: The village Nishangram is located in Dudhnoi Circle of Goalpara District in the State of Assam in India. It is governed by Damra Gram Panchayat. It comes under Kuchdhowa Community Development Block. The nearest town is Goalpara, which is about 15 Kilometers away from Nishangram.

Nishangram is a place where nature meets history. A picturesque Garo village that brims with rustic natural beauty, rich heritage, delicious seasonal produce and mouth watering ethnic delicies. It is a place away from the humdrums of busy life. A place to relax, recharge and rejuvenate.

Earlier known as "Matmaaram" it is situated close to the Meghalaya border. It was later re-christened as "Nishangram". It is derived from a high and distinctive flag once installed in the village. In 1984 a school for Garo children was established here. "Everyone is literate in this village" - says Lakshman Chandra Momin, Retd. Teacher, BN. Union L.P School lately on, Rev.

Rakho, a religious reformer first came and settled in this village. This area then came to be known as 'Christian Fara' meaning a village of Christians.

Nishangram, is a village known for its cleanliness. It is due to the hardwork and awareness of the villagers who keep their locality clean. You won't see a tiny bit of paper or plastic thrown in roadside. Instead small flower plants adorn the entire place. Bamboo baskets installed every where you can throw wastes. There are not newly adopted habits, but was followed from ages. The beautiful cottages have flowers adorning the gates, frontyard the landscape with green and green fields in breathtakingly beautiful some cottages are old and were built at times of British Era. The church was built most probably at 1868. The people say, Our president Rajendra Prasad visited Nishangram. This is the first Garo village to embrace Christianity.

Every Saturday the villagers make it a habit of engaging in community cleaning initiatives. There are other specific days for cleaning as well. The villagers have also allotted days for woman a man folk and children to engage in cleanliness activities.

It is very import to know how this place became Nishangram. There is a place called Rajashimla, about 10 Km from Dinadubi, near Nishangram, where two brothers, Ramke Momin and Ranku Momin, lived. Ramke Momin was born into the Garo tribe northeastern India, sometime in the 1830s. The Garos did have a reputation for keeping their world. In religious matters, the Garos were animists, focusing on placating the spirits to appease their wrath and satisfy their demands. They believed in a Supreme God, but felt that he was detached from men and was not to be much concerned with, either for good or ill. Ramke himself was a devotional person and while he was an animist, he was very earnest in catching little animals or birds and sacrificing them to the spirits.

In 1847, the British, who were extending their rule in India, invited boys from the Garo tribe to come down to Goalpara in the valley and receive an education. Ramke's uncle, Ormed, went down to school at this time but Ramke was detained at home since he had recently broken his arm. Later he joined them and was found to be a good scholar. In Goalpara he learned about Hinduism and its teaching about reincarnation. This idea dismayed him. As an animist, he had placated the spirits but believed that, whether in this life or the next, people were people, not animals or plants. As he considered ultimate things, he thought not only of wrath and punishment, but of love and about the great God above everything else. He prayed to God for blessing and for peace of mind. After praying thus for three days in a row he received a visitation from heaven, declaring that his prayer was heard. When he tried to tell others about his vision, he received ridicule from everyone except the Hindu "holy men," or sadhus. They instructed him further in Hindu theology, including Vishnu, a savior figure. Ramke was very attracted to Vishnu, especially in his incarnation as Ram. So, Ramke began to worship Ram. Later, Ramke came across a Christian tract that systematically discredited Hinduism. He was convinced by the tract but thrown into despair because his worship of Ram was taken from him. In the Garo jungle book, it is said, "The tracts of those days were pointed, uncompromising attacks on the falseness of the prevailing faiths." Omed, who lived at Grauhati, came across the same tract, but had a more positive reaction. Omed had a Christian associate and invited Ramke to come to Grauhati and together they studied Christianity. Then as a policeman Ramke was sent to another assignment, where he fell into discouragement spiritually. But then he read a book about Christian heroism, which helped him.

Among the Garos, the woman chose their husbands. A girl named Suban proposed to Ramke and he accepted. After the wedding, he told her he was thinking about becoming a Christian, which she considered a frightening prospect. Nevertheless, after a while Ramke returned to Omed, they studied Christianity more and were baptized, contrary to the wishes of their wives. They begged for a missionary to be sent to their people, but when none was available, they eventually offered themselves. They were accepted and salary was given to them. Ramke preached a little, but primarily focused on starting a school in Damra. After preaching for a while, Omed was driven away. He built a hut at the foot of the Rajasimla Pass, where travellers could rest on their way to and from the market. Eventually the witness of these two men and other Christians, including western missionaries, won never many other Garos to Christianity. Remake felt there was a need for another Christian village where new converts could learn more about the faith. Thus without opposition from their neighbors. Thus developed the village of Nishangram. He was ordained as pastor and served as headmaster of the Normal School. both at Goalpara and at Turra. He assisted in the translation of the scriptures into Garo and bengali - Garo dictionary.

Ramke Momin and Ramko Momin the first Garo people who converted to christianity. Before converting to Christianity, they were baptized. Baptism is a ceremony in which a christian is immersed in water before the church to publically symbolize their belief in christ. The water is symbol of sin being. they were baptized at Shukreswar Ghat in Guwahati. Then they started some work to preach the religion in Damra. They wanted to settle in Damra but for some reason they couldn't. At that time, the Nishangram area was covered with dense forest, when the population was small and the tigers were rampant, the strong Rank Momim was able to protect the villagers from the tigers.

Nishangram is a notable place for visiting. This village is full of natural beauty. The Garos are the main tribe living in this place. This place is kept very clean and this made possible only by the efforts of the people living in the place. They always put discipline first in social life. They follow religious discipline very much. natural research is high. There for, you can see coconut, Tamarind, betel nut trees etc. in their houses.

It is already noteworthy that there is very little noise among them. They all follow their own rules and regulation. They are also advanced in terms of cleanliness. Therefore, This place is known as a tourist destination. " If tourism develops. Our future generation would benefit immensely, we are preparing houses with homestay facilities. This will lead to economic development in the area," says Somanan Marak, President Nishangvo, ASRLM, Kuchidhawa TD Block.

They have their own arts and culture like other ethnic groups in Assam. Wangala dance is a special dance prevalent among the people of Nishangram. The Wangala is also known as the Festival of Hundred Drums and is celebrated with different forms of dances on the tunes of folk songs played on drums and primitive flute made of buffalo horns.

The festival is celebrated in honour of the sun God and marks the end of the long harvest season.

For the Garo Tribe in Nishangram, the festival is a way to preserve and promote their cultural identity and they exhibit their tradition in their celebrations.

Like other ethnic groups, the Garos have traditional costumes. Traditional dresses of Garo Tribe consists of EKing, Turban, Kotip, Nadongbing sisha, Natapasi and Ripok. They are inhabitants of Meghalaya. Colourful dresses can be seen in this place for both men and women. Garo tribes are the experienced and talented weavers in this region. Most of the families earn their livelihood from weaving.

The traditional costume of a Garo male includes a strip of woven cloth, chador and a turban which is wrapped around the head leaving the top of the head bare. The Nokma, use special turban of Assamese silk on important occasions.

The Garo female costume consists of a piece of cloth decorated beautifully with floral prints which is tied around their waist and a blouse of the same design and a turban. During winter the women also use shawls.

Even after the famous Wangala Festival is over, the celebrations in the Garo tribes homes continue with feasts. This tribes cuisine has many elements to teach the mainlanders. The use of medicinal herbs is one of them. Kalchi is another secret to their good gut health. The Garos, also known as achiks, Rice remains a staple dish, but they consume millet, maize, tapioca and other grains and have a fairly diverse diet. The Garos raise goats, pigs, fowl, ducks and other animals for consumption. Meat is still an essential part of the tribes diet as hunters, although the days of sport hunting, elephants and even tigers are passed. As a result, their meals now primarily consist of chicken, pork, and fish. Their diet also includes fish, crabs, eels and dry fish. Their jhum fields and forests supply a variety of veggies and roots for their cuisine. Bamboo shoots are considered a delicacy. The indigenous cuisine counts medicinal plants as an integral part. These herbs are added to dishes and high blood pressure. Kalchi, for example, is a common element in local cooking. It's a natural alkali made from banana or cotton ash commonly used in recipes like do'o Kappa, a famous chicken sauce.

Agriculture is the main occupation of Nishangram village. Paddy, Betelnut and Banana are agriculture commodities grow in this village. Cloth and Bamboo product Handicraft items are in this village.

people of Nishangram village are living in very peaceful manner. This village is waiting for industrial development.

Education Drinking water, Road and Electricity are the main concern of this village. Young generation is more attracted towards mobile, Laptop and computer technology these days. If banks and finance institutions provide loan and other financial support to the villagers, this village will see the real development. Medical and health services has to be improved.

The roads in Nishangram have also improved significantly. Every road in this village is paved. There are also trees along the road that keep its beauty alive.

They are still trying to improve their village. They also spend a lot on small flower gardens.

The Nishangram Village has population of 1250 of which 624 are males while 626 are females as per population census 2011. In Nishangram village population of children with age 0-6 is 156 which makes up 12.48% of total population of village.
